action—our struggle for peace in a war-torn world conceived by another generation, self-definition in chaos, and the urgent need to tell it like it is

Rock Island High School 1969—poised for, embroiled in, reflecting upon action. Whether at the goal line or the lunch line the Rocky student was constantly involved in his particular brand of action. This was the year of demonstrations, a political campaign, an AFS student in Greece, record-breaking enrollment, the Olympic Games. This was the year of action.

Opportunities were available for anyone who wanted to be a part of the action. Rocky's varied activities served as vehicles for the expression of each individual's personal identity. These organizations provide an outlet for the student's involvement in his area of interest or talent. Through sports and other recreational activities, he shared his ideas and learned to relate to others. Identifying, involving, interacting—aspects of 1969—the year of action.

SCHOOL DAYS

Senior class officers, Steve Leatherman, president; Laura Swedberg, vice president; and Leanna Nelson, secretary, were elected to plan future reunions for the Class of 1969.

1969 class leads Rocky through action year

The senior pursued leadership, be it at scholastics, athletics, or organizations. He completed his restless two year apprenticeship at being a follower.

At the same time the senior eagerly awaited his post-diploma career, although he knew that next year his upperclassman status would be reversed. He pondered on and prepared for either academics or a vocation.

Most importantly the senior concentrated on some achievement. Realizing it was his last year he bore down even more, immunizing himself against the otherwise common disease of senioritis.

Officers of the senior class meet in the school office with Mr. Aspedon.

Superintendent and school board act as team

Working behind the scene in Rock Island School District No. 41 were the five members of the Rock Island Board of Education. The duties of the School Board covered all of the different aspects of education. Responsibilities ranged from arranging curriculum and setting policies to buying land sites for future school buildings and hiring personnel. School Board members also worked with teachers' salaries and provision of funds for various school programs.

Working with the School Board in administering the school operations were the Superintendent of Schools and his two assistants.

Bennett Litherland finds a dictaphone important in transacting business.

Principal and assistant head Rocky faculty

Mr. Aspedon and Mr. Evans discuss many decisions leading to high principles.

Managing a school as large as Rock Island High is a mammoth task. It required the administrative teamwork of two men, the Principal, Mr. F. W. Aspedon, and the Assistant Principal, Mr. Edward Evans who concentrated on the critical and unpopular job of disciplinary management. This included compiling a student's behavior record and assigning all detentions. Mr. Aspedon, however, had a more varied task. He had charge of everything at Rocky from approving excuses, to compiling individual student schedules, to making morning WATCHTOWER announcements.

Mr. Evans, Assistant Principal, discusses discipline with students.

Long hours are spent on bookwork and current problems by Mr. F. W. Aspedon.

Essential to Rocky's operation were its Deans and counselors. The Deans recorded attendance records and supervised school policies. They doubled as senior counselors, advising seniors in choosing a college, vocation, scholarship, or grant.

The sophomore and junior counselors assisted in the selection of courses and discussed grade problems. The advisors also guided underclassmen through varied tests.

Office, nurse part of complex framework

Complicated attendance records are kept by Mrs. Hensen.

Mrs. Herman sends transcripts for Rock Island college applicants.

One of the main "cogs" in the school machine was the office staff. Among other duties, they found the time to help unsatisfied students adjust their schedules, sell tickets to games, return lost books, process applications needed for college or jobs, and to record attendance. And as if all those jobs didn't keep them busy enough, they still made themselves available for answering the many questions students proposed.

The school nurse also helps to make school life easier by healing student aches and pains.

Custodial staff indispensable in maintenance

Ready, willing, and able to handle any situation that calls for their services is the custodial staff. STANDING, Helen Nanke, Ed Klow, Clarence Dusenberry, Clarence Bell, George Van Den Breen, Fred Wedeking, Ed Woods, Melvin Sundvall. KNEELING, Ralph Hallin and Kenneth Lowe.

The daily duties of janitor Kenneth Lowe include fixing broken lockers.

If there were an emergency such as a window not closing or a light burning out, invariably the reliable janitor was enlisted. There were seventeen custodians altogether who worked in shifts around the clock. They did such chores as cleaning rooms, checking thermostats, keeping the emergency generator going and parking cars at football games and other events after school. The Head Custodian is Kenneth Lowe.

Cafeteria is place for lunch and relaxation

Lorraine Hender reflects her enthusiasm as she receives lunch money.

The ringing of the cafeteria cash register was a familiar sound to most students at Rock Island High. This year the price of a hot lunch and all-the-bread one-could-eat was 40¢. Two snack bars serving ice cream, potato chips, milk, and other specialties were open at noon for the students' convenience.

Breakfast, which consisted of different types of juice and hot, buttered sweet rolls, was served in the mornings from 7:30 until 8:30. The cafeteria was used additionally for testing and meetings.

Jess Hansen takes time to enjoy a bottle of pop in the student lounge.

Books, audio-visual aids complement learning

GEORGE McMASTER

Working in the Audio-Visual Aids Department requires detailed recordings and bookkeeping for Mrs. Noble as she distributes films and equipment.

Edna Burkert supplies Rocky students with the every day necessary items.

The Audio-Visual Department, which has occupied their quarters in the Northwest addition for one year, continued its service of providing equipment to the Public School System.

All film projectors, tape recorders, phonographers, and movie screens were provided through the A-V department. They also obtained many new films and film strips.

For the students who suddenly found themselves lacking school supplies, the Book Store was open before and after school and fourth hour.

Teachers of the Language Department looked for dedicated students in which they could inculcate an appreciation of another culture.

With the aid of a new listening center for fourteen students, tape recorders, and a language lab students learned to speak in a different tongue as well as interpret. Reading foreign literature, participating in group discussion, and writing essays also helped students in this practice. Movies and slide projectors helped with the cultural aspect of the course.

The curriculum included courses in German, Spanish, Latin, and French.

Rocky's English Department was packed with three progressive levels of rhetoric. Sophomore English consisted of composition and world literature, including poetry, drama, narrative, biography, and composition. Junior English was concerned with studying American poetry, essays, short stories, and novels. Some junior English teachers required term papers. Senior English divided into three sections. They were 12-C, an accelerated college English course; 12-R, a college preparatory course; and 12-N, a regular course.

Rocky students whose special training needs reached out across one or more occupational area, were actively envolved in the Cooperative Work Training program this past year. Through work experience, CWT members learned the skills of their chosen occupation.

The Diversified Occupations program offers a method of vocational education to qualified juniors and seniors who wish to use both in-school and on-the-job work experience for effective training in a job of their choice. Students attended two academic classes, English and social studies and one of related occupational interest.

Young masters cultivate aesthetic talents

Students of art at Rocky had ample opportunity for creativity this year. The Art Department, headed by Mr. White and Mr. Klatt, expanded the creative opportunity of all the students by making new art materials available to them. Students could work with messy papier mache, precise metal soldering equipment or clay to be hand-molded or worked on a potter's wheel. The woodblock printing implements provided wide creative range for Christmas-card artists, while other motifs were constructed of balloons and string. The best work was put in the hall window display.

Scientists find solutions through research

Mr. Goodwin points out the basic structure of planaria to students.

With the aid of modern scientific facilities, modernized teaching methods, and an excellent curriculum the Science Department prepared Rocky's young minds for the technical world of today and tomorrow.

A year ago Biology I instructors experimented with a new method of teaching. Their classes met jointly to hear lectures and participate in discussions. This experiment proved so highly successful that this plan for team teaching was utilized this year also.

Sophomores were required to take Biology I while upperclassmen were given the opportunity to choose electives in Regular and Nurses' Chemistry, Advanced Biology, and Physics. Advanced students were offered a Chemistry/Physics course as juniors, followed by the opportunity to take college Chemistry as seniors.

A new ten-key printing calculator, and three new ten-key adding machines gave to business education some real mechanical zip. Mr. Kenneth Johnson, head of the department, said that these technical innovations to his classes should aid his students in their search for vocational opportunities.

Bookkeeping I and II, business arithmetic, clerical practice, personal typing, and personal records were offered as were business law, secretarial training and stenography.

Another practical business technique is outlined by Mrs. McGinnis.

MURRAY OSBORN

Mr. Osborn directs Rocky's vocalists in the basics of having harmony.

Mr. Guy Anderson distributes copies of a new play to his speech students.

Music and speech were two creative ways in which talented Rocky students have expressed themselves. Murray Osborn and Guy Anderson, department heads in these respective studies, strove to impart fundamental knowledge to their charges. In music the students surveyed and sang various musical modes of the past and present, while in drama, they concentrated on the development of constructive speech through research and experimental acting. These students gave the impetus for concerts and plays.

Jim Andrews demonstrates fundamentals of gymnastics to sophomore boys.

The 1968-69 boys' gym program opened, sporting many of the previous year's courses and aids—and several new ones. The new tennis courts erected in the east parking lot and the resurfacing of the old courts marked major improvements for the year. All the junior classes had sex education, a new course introduced in Rock Island schools. Athletic programs included the staples of football, basketball, and baseball, plus track, tennis, swimming, and wrestling. Others were handball, volleyball, and gymnastics.

Technicians develop skills

Informative, dexterous, and industrious accurately characterized the Industrial Arts Department. The varied choice of activities and pre-training courses offered in Industrial Arts proved to be of interest to the college and non-college bound student alike. The classes of printing, woodworking, mechanical drawing, machine shop and the one-year-old course of electronics provided knowledge in numerous aspects of mechanical technology. Students, such as the printers, profitted by producing school materials.

An industrious mechanical arts student perfects his skill on the lathe.

For those girls anticipating a career in the busy and ever-expanding field of Home Economics or perhaps, planning an early marriage, Rocky's Home Economics Department offered the needed training. However, it wasn't necessary to want either of these two ventures to gain the very utmost from this course.

Many girls found Home Ec a means of acquiring a more rounded personality, or of becoming better citizens through understanding and assuming community responsibility and privileges. Three Rock Island High teachers provided the ideas and materials for success in the field.

Sophomores learn to drive

Those sixteen year olds eager for their driver's licenses usually secured them under the auspices of Driver Education. Six weeks of theory prepared the aspirant for the next semester's actual behind-the-wheel training. The class work familiarized the student with laws and traffic and administered two of the three tests mandatory for the license. The third test was no less than the skills test given by the Moline Driver's License Division after three terms of rigorous in-the-car training.

Bibliothecary supplies provisions for study

Study hall provided Rocky students with much time to hit the books. This class gave students a chance to do some homework, cram for a test, or occasionally relax. This year there were three new supervisors, Mr. Willis, Mr. Seeley, and Mr. Weiner.

The library was another haven for the over-worked student. Here a student could do some studying or browse through the many books. When a question arose, the librarians Mrs. Simmon and Miss Van Eaton were there to help.

As a librarian, Mrs. Simmon has the task of taking care of Rocky's books.

Mr. Seeley relaxes as he serves as watchman for study hall.

Juniors—a class perpetually in motion

At summer's end, juniors register with grim expressions of anticipation.

Ceasing to be mere "Pebbles," the juniors acquired new status and new responsibilities as full-fledged "Rocks." They became active members of Rocky's Varsity and enthusiastically cheered their teams to victory.

The class of '70 confronted junior tests that prepared them for college entrance, and they began actively to explore college and career possibilities.

The middleclassmen proudly presented their own Junior Class Play, proving their skill and competence in the dramatic arts.

As juniors, they hosted the seniors for the gala Junior-Senior Prom, and as final proof of their preparedness for seniority, they received their class rings.

The initial days of school almost overwhelmed the sophomore. Anonymous faces and new predicaments met him daily. These "sophomore problems" introduced him to his future course.

C.Y.C. was the place to go after the football and basketball games. For the first time sophomores might attend Homecoming and Sweetheart Swirl.

Five sophomore girls were elected as cheerleaders, and many sophomores became active in school sports. Some participated in Senate, many joined clubs and organizations, and all elected class officers.

Soon the class of '71 discovered these activities no longer confusing, but challenging; no longer threatening, but stimulating.

Rock Island High School's Senate, a body of students for recommending school improvement, continued its service as communication "middleman" this year. The Senate sponsored the selection of the cheerleaders and Homecoming Royalty and oversaw the election of class officers and Junior Marshals. This council directed the charity drives. They participated in a senator exchange program and Quint City Student Congress. The representatives also made a major revision of school rules based on a questionnaire and administrative opinion.

Assemblies

Fridays! These were special days this past school year. The reason might have been the assemblies. The assemblies included those for holidays and special events, entertainment and exchanges. Held an average of two a month, they covered a variety of subjects. The solemn Christmas and ceremonious Homecoming assemblies were two notable highlights. Besides these were the informative organizations and award assemblies, allowing the students to become aware of achievements and activities of fellow students. In the realm of entertainment, dance bands, magicians, and even banjo players performed. Also, Rocky hosted area high school talent in exchange assemblies.

AFS strengthens international relations

The purpose of the AFS Committee was to promote international understanding and appreciation of the different cultures of the world. They pursued these goals through various activities. Members planned fund-raising projects for Rocky students in RI's own exchange program. They welcomed and helped the foreign exchange students. Finally, looking ahead, the group found hosts for next year's foreign students.

Compulsory service is theme for debaters

"Mundane" was definitely not the word to describe the varsity debate squad in this year. In fact, things were pretty lively around the rostrum with the debaters partaking in a successful tournament season. The debate coach provided a strong incentive for the varsity debaters with the newest in coaching techniques. He directed their actions with a braided bullwhip given him by four of his varsity squad. The infamous whip and its operator's technique probably had much to do with the fact that varsity debaters achieved a highly commendable record of four wins and eight losses at the rigorous Illinois State University Invitational Debate Tournament held at Champaign, Illinois this year.

"Only a healthy body can harbor a healthy mind." This is one of the favorite mottoes of the G.A.A. members. To put in practice this quote, they participated in numerous activities which included swimming, basketball, and archery. Each night that they attended one of these events, they received two points. When they accumulated twenty-four points, they became official members.

The highlights of this group were the Pa and Me Party, the Mother-Daughter Banquet, and the slumber party. The club also helped prepare and decorate for Homecoming. The money-making projects were selling G.A.A. sweatshirts and working at concession stands.

In conjunction with the Diversified Occupations Club, the CWT Club held their annual Christmas party, this year in the home of their sponsor. With these social activities combined with their school studies they worked towards commercial success.

The boy's organization Hi-Y gained momentum throughout the year. Their functions involved such action-spurring events as sports, forums, and trips. One meeting dealt with a field trip to the Rock Island Millwork Co. Others involved such diverse athletics as swimming and ping-pong. And still another offered a provacative speech presented by Sheriff Boyle concerning the rising problem of narcotics. Valuable programs instruct future educators

Do you hate your teachers? If you answered yes, you should have joined FTA, a club dedicated to the better understanding of teachers. In FTA, each member had the chance to learn all about the trials and joys of the teaching profession. This year, in order to make these facts available to members, the club had many teachers come to speak at meetings, describing their work. Aside from regular meetings, the FTA also sent representatives to the state convention where club methods were discussed.

In addition to those two, there was the select Woodwind and Brass Choirs. In order to become a member of either of the choirs, a student was tested by the band director. Then only the most skilled were chosen for those groups. Musical ensembles render harmonious tunes

To permit easier instruction, the Band director divided students into the Concert Band and the Symphonic Band. This was conducive for alternate days of specialized and general training. Another group, the Stage Band, was chosen for virtuoso skill to represent RIHS in exchange assemblies, as well as playing in the Homecoming Assembly. Much of the routine work fell to cornet player Frank Thomas, Band manager and "right hand man" to the Band director. Frank was assisted by Sharon Seymour and Julie Blick.

Christmas

Certainly the best sounding organization at Rocky was the Senior Glee. The versatile Senior Glee was often called upon to provide musical background for a Rocky activity, or to put on a concert of their own. In the spring of this year, hopeful sophomore members of chorus class tried out to become members of the Senior Glee during their junior and senior years. If accepted, they were expected to work hard toward a goal of musical perfection. It was this that made the Christmas concert and the spring concert presented by the Senior Glee seem all the more enjoyable.

Rehearsing for the Christmas concert are Chamber Choir members Becky Taylor, Dawn Cole, Johnette Hiner, Gloria DeVacht, and Mara Mitchell.

In the sixteenth century, "chamber music" was sung by small groups of carolers. A select body of juniors and seniors, having the title of Chamber Choir, met each day this year to engage in singing this type of music. Sixteen talented girls and boys sang out under their director's close scrutiny. Sporting rust-colored blazers and plaid jumpers, the Chamber Choir performed in numerous exchange assemblies and school concerts. Many an enjoyable hour was spent by the student body listening to the inspiring voices of the Choir.

Rocky's female vocalists hit high note

Twenty-five female vocalists composed this year's Girls' Glee Club. Daily during fifth period the girls enjoyed an opportunity to gain skill and precision from practicing. All types of songs, ranging from classical to contemporary were sung and perfected. The Girls' Glee Club offered their talent to the student body in the various concerts and music-fests held throughout the year. Highlighting the Glee Club's year was joining with the Senior Glee and the Chamber Choir for the 200-voice choral Christmas program.

Taking that refreshing pause are Girls' Glee officers Toni Tucker, Sue Miller, and Jan Deater.

Accompaniment and direction for the Girls' Glee Club are provided by Marlise Riffel and Mr. Murray Osborn.

Rocky musicians create orchestral strains

Louis Valsoano and Melvin Grimes strive to reach perfection on the cello.

The orchestra strived daily for skill in practice and exactness in performance. To achieve these goals of precision, the string players had sectional practice two times a week to learn fundamental musicianship. While the strings were in sectional practice, the woodwinds and brasses met in their respective groups for ensemble work. The Woodwind Choir and the Brass Choir read through new and varied pieces. The ensembles were asked to play at special events. Highlighting the year was a trip to an Iowa City workshop.

Camera Club kindles photographic interest

Tours of the Hains Studio and the John Deere photo lab were among the activities of Camera Club members. Besides taking pictures for the WATCHTOWER and the Crimson Crier, the club had several picture-taking nights including a session concentrating on portrait shots. There were also follow-up meetings where members developed and printed their pictures. In other meetings, photographic techniques were studied and demonstrations were given of various kinds of cameras. A photo display from Kodak was shown in the third floor hall.

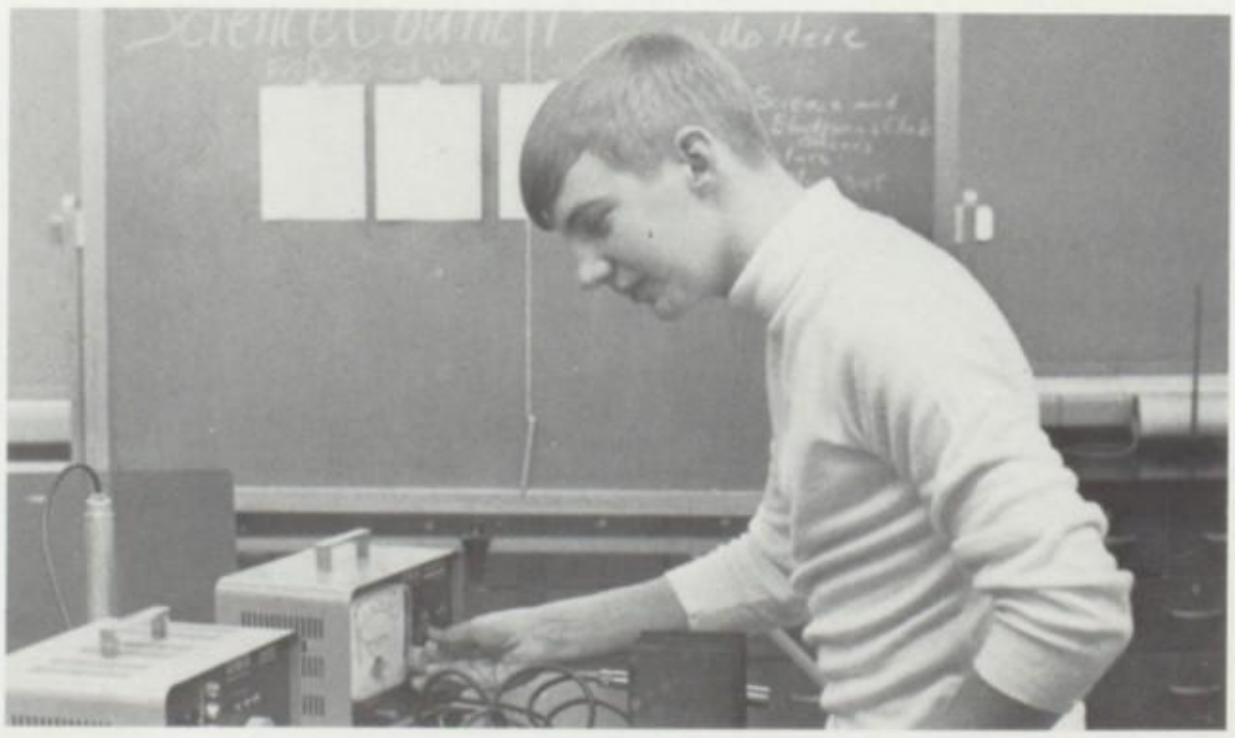
Science and Electronics form Radio Club

Elements of the Science and Electronics Club, John Kittler, Ted Stone, Dale Enburg, Craig Sandusky, Larry Thomas, Debbie Stone, Carita Stevens, and SEATED, Steve Buller, and Jerry Carstens, hold periodic meetings.

Craig Sandusky performs experiments with complex electronics equipment.

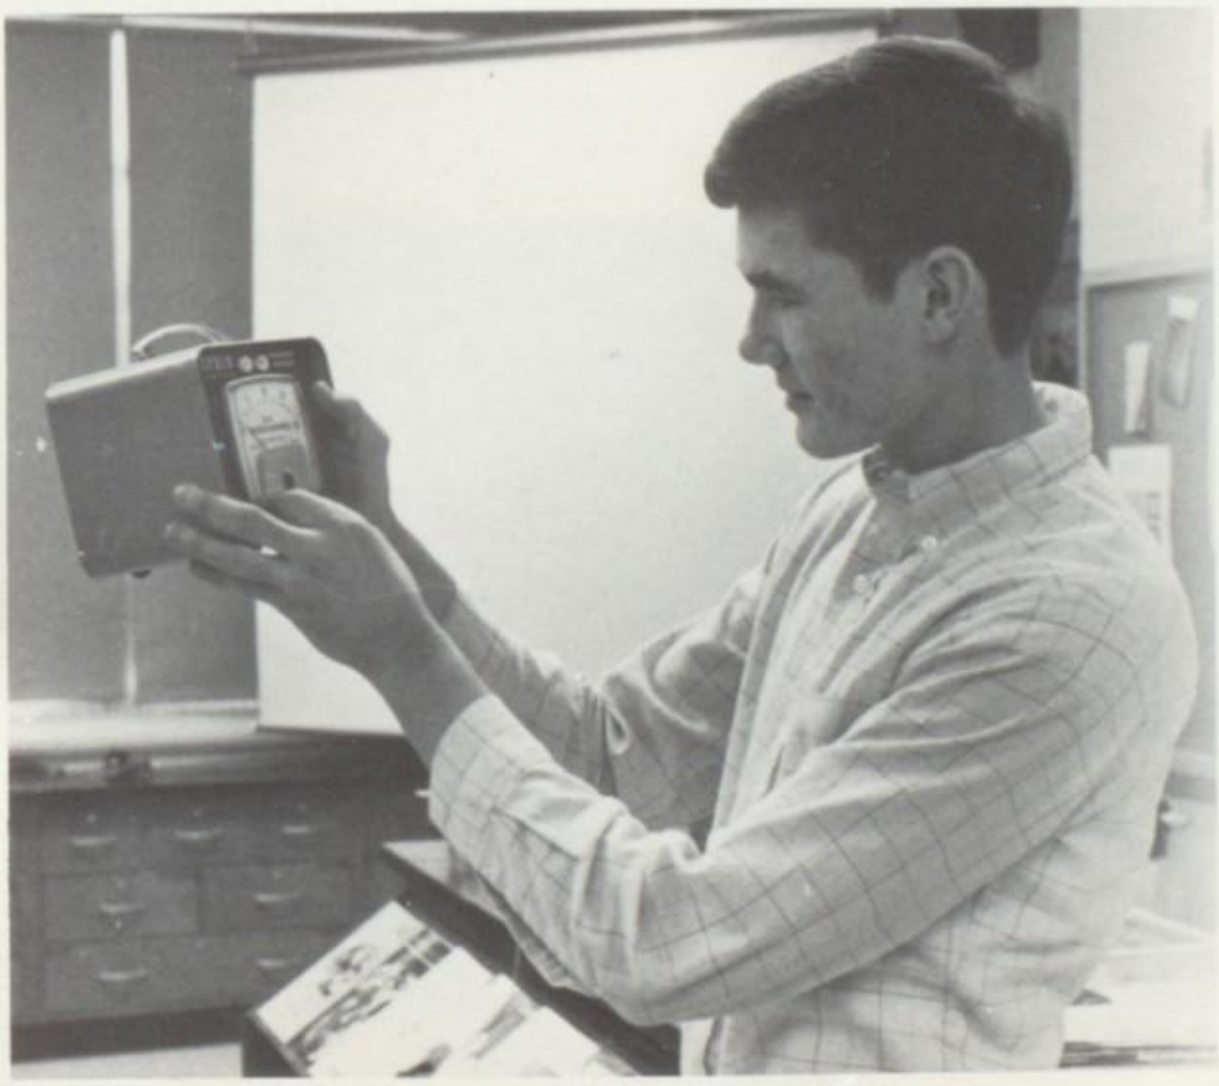


A new club came to Rocky under the auspices of an old one this year. The new Radio Club fused minds with the old Science and Electronics Club. The goal of the members is to obtain their ham radio licenses because this year both clubs had ham radio equipment available to use. They also had all of the rest of Rocky's new sophisticated scientific apparatus available, augmented by field trips, films, and lectures yearlong.

Science Council members listen intently to a thorough explanation given by the president David Garber.

Concessions, picnic spark Science Council

Jerry Carstens explains that the voltameter is a very useful instrument.



The Science Council of Rock Island High School included all of the members of the Camera Club and of the Science and Electronics Club. They met monthly and the combination worked advantageously for both groups. At these periodic functions, Science Council members used equipment ranging from a giant star-gazing telescope, and powerful ham radio, to an electric generator. When members weren't studying the use of this equipment, they were usually learning how to pop popcorn for all Rocky's concession stands. The Council members had to be careful, however-no test tubes could be found in the popcorn!

Annual performance exhibits

One had to do more than float to have been good enough to warrant membership in the Dolphinettes. To be included in this group one needed, as the name implies, grace along with excellent swimming ability. The Dolphinettes practiced their water ballet diligently to attain synchronization. The highlight of the year was their annual swim show held in the spring. The theme of this year's presentation was titled "Synchro-Swing." The three-night performance required much rehearsal and preparation, and the girls were rewarded for their effort at a cast party.

A-C-T-I-O-N needs pep and that is exactly what the Rocky Pep Club girls displayed this year. Members started the club's year off right by sponsoring a Pep Club bus to the Jefferson game. Other busses were also enlisted by Pep Club for the football and basketball games. Homecoming was brightened by happy buttons offered to the students by Pep Club. Rounding out their activities, members also served in the pom pon section.

Dramatic Club develops theatrical skills

The many thrills of theatre life were obtained monthly at Rocky's Drama Club last year. Traveling contest plays, speech contests, and various other productions were but a few of the outlets for Rocky talent. One of the highlighting features of the year proved to be the Rockademy Awards and dinner celebrated in the spring.

Reaching for success, Dramatic club officers are, Diane Pirman, Connie Peschang, Steph Heiwig, Dave Johnston, and Jean Rosenquist.

Thespians demonstrate forensic abilities

Christopher Fry's most highly acclaimed comedy The Lady's Not For Burning challenged those of the Dramatic Club as their first seasonal play. The twelve cast members performed a matinee on November fourteenth and on the evenings of the fifteenth and sixteenth. The matinee was a first-ever for the club.

A unique aspect of the Dramatic Club's first production was the fact that the comedy had a setting in the Fifteenth Century and was written in the Elizabethan style although it was first produced in 1948.

A Roomful of Roses, a drama by Edith Sommer examining divorce and desperation, was presented as the Junior Class Play. The money derived from the production helped support the Junior-Senior Prom.

Terrence Rattigan's Separate Tables served as the Senior Class Play. Two plays in one, this work dealt with complications of love.

With scripts in hands, three students diligently concentrate on their lines.

Contest, one-acts highlight Dramatic Club

Imagination provided the keystone to dramatic activities this year. The total of four one-act plays presented, showed the massive effort the students, acting in the plays, put forth. The plays were not only composed of student actors, but were student-directed as well. The other dramatic attraction of the year was the forty-minute-long Contest play. In all of these plays, sparkling student performances made for successful showings.

Parisian AFS'er adds to French Club success

What does "bonjour" mean? Do Frenchmen sing Christmas carols? What kinds of food do they eat? The solutions to these questions and more were uncovered in French Club. For a small fee, those students interested in the French language and customs participated in many French-centered activities: games, song-fests, and parties. Highlighting the year was the long-awaited Chicago trip in the spring. However, the outstanding feature of the club proved to be the French exchange student, who added an authentic touch.

Young critics find fulfillment in analysis

Chairmen of the Literary Club are Kathy Books, Duane Taylor, and Dan Murphy.

The increase of literary interest among students was the goal of the Literary Club. The club divided itself into two sections. The Literary Criticism section aimed at an exchange and expansion of ideas. Some of the books reviewed included Fountainhead, The Once and Future King, and Space Odyssey. The Creative Writing portion of the club devoted itself to criticism of student-written material. Much of this work later appeared in the spring Literary Club magazine, which was judged and edited by a club committee and advisors.

Culinary, sewing skills taught to homemakers

If you smell something good cooking, then it must be the Home Economics Club in action preparing one of their many superb delicacies. The club participated in many activities that taught domestic skills.

The club met once each month with an intriguing program planned for each meeting. At an early session, French foreign exchange student, Sylvie Mathe, gave an expansive lecture on the French homemaker. In two later meetings the girls learned the art of crocheting.

Together these activities promoted the club's purpose.

These service-minded students led the soap drive for inmates at Dixon State Hospital. Geared to foster school enthusiasm, Key Club completed the case for the spirit bulletin board this year. At home football games, club members sold programs and booster buttons. This club set the standards for which boys at Rocky strove in behalf of the school.

"Action '69" embodied the spirit of the WATCHTOWER staff this year. Action cropped up in every aspect of yearbook activity. Shooting pictures, drawing posters, lyric poems for the new advisor, mildly ridiculous announcements, a new room, a new period, and a new yearbook company all combined to provide a never-ending activity whirl for all involved. The junior assistants on the staff received more responsibility, even extending to assistant editorships, while the seniors rallied behind the slogan, "This is the year of the yearbook!"

Energetic, hard-working, dependable and efficient were a few of the words used to describe the thirteen members first semester Crimson Crier staff. This group of writers, led by Cindy Jones and Bill Ellison, equalled the smallest staff in recent Crier history.

The fall Crimson Crier staff produced six issues. The individuality of the team showed through in the columns and stories of the paper. A new column, "Prune Speaks," discussed plans to promote the plight of prunes. The paper also included a feature on the two All-American football players at Rocky, Mr. Franck and Mr. Almquist.

National Honor students smile at the thought of their assembly and the free Rotary dinner given in their honor.

National Honor Society gives

"I pledge myself to uphold the ideals of the National Honor Society: scholarship, leadership, character, and service, and to follow these ideals throughout my life." This year, eighty-seven boys and girls recited these meaningful words. Each was a senior having a grade average of 92 or above. Their many achievements earned them the right to be members of the National Honor Society, introduced at Rocky in 1937. Since that early date, Rocky has acknowledged 2,106 seniors admitted to the Society. Activities for new members included a banquet hosted by the Rotary Club in late May, and the Induction Ceremony presented to the student body. During the assembly, each qualifying student received a gold pin, a small but treasured token of recognition.

Individual efforts key to Rocky

Tagged as a possible "dark horse," the Rock Island Varsity football team went on to fulfill that prophecy with an outstanding 6—3 mark. In his second year as head coach, Gary Embretson guided a well-knit ball club to the best record compiled by a Rocky squad in several years.

The first game saw the Rocks come from behind to upset the perennial powerhouse, Cedar Rapids Jefferson, in the final quarter, 21—7. Sparked by the running of Ken Johnson and two touchdown passes from Drake DeVore to Rick Miers the gridders began the season in a triumphant way. Davenport West was the Rocks' next victim, as the squad displayed a tremendous rushing attack of 367 yards. The team exploded in the first quarter for 27 points, including a touchdown ramble by defenseman Walt Stradley and three other t-d sprints consuming only five plays from scrimmage. The final score was 41—13. The following week Rock Island grid success in triumphant season

earned the city football crown in defeating Alleman, 27—9. Homecoming spirit at two schools slowed Rocky considerably as a tilt at Clinton saw the River Kings trim the Rocks, 12—0, and at another contest in East Moline, the Varsity barely squeezed by, 14—13. In the next game, the Rocks rumpled rival Moline. With a score of 33—20, the battle was primarily an offensive show with Harvey Chaney and Lew Miskowicz and Steve Arnold's fine performances. The Islanders were headed off the next week by Davenport Central, 25—7, and again by Washington of Cedar Rapids, 47—7, before a Rock Island Homecoming crowd. The gridders closed the season by trouncing Iowa City, 20—4.

Highly successful, Rocky was led offensively by fullback Ken Johnson and defensively by end Walt Stradley.

After the dinner was consumed Coaches Bonsall, Clark, and Hardin presented awards of certificates, minor and major letters to the team. Head Coach Embretson presented special awards to the following squad members: Harvey Chaney, most improved; Doug Carpenter, best blocker; Walt Stradley, best defensive; Drake DeVore, best team man; and Ken Johnson, most valuable. Lou Miskowicz was given the honor of the 1969 captainship. Ken Johnson also received a special award for gaining 1027 yards for this football campaign.

Sophs show potential in injury-ridden year

Overcoming a slow start, lack of size, and costly injuries, The Rock Island Sophomore football team completed a highly successful season. The Pebbles, under new Head Coach John Benn, displayed a devastating running attack in compiling a 3—3—2 record.

In their opener the Pebbles were stymied by Jefferson 7—33. They came to life though, and won their next three games in a row. Their victims were West 20—19, Alleman 19—13, and Clinton 32—14. After tying East Moline 20—20, The Pebbles lost to Moline 6—20 and tied Central 0—0. They polished off the season by losing to Washington 12—34.

The Soph's ground attack was lead by halfback Bobby Johnson who rushed for nearly 100 yards. Other backfield stars were quarterback John Each, halfback Bruce Walker, and fullback John Maurus. The outstanding linemen were tackle George Day, and Jerry Hansen, and end Dave Hansen.

The Pebbles showed both great potential and competiveness throughout the season. They proved their desire by coming from behind and taking the lead in the fourth quarter in each of their victories.

Queen Jolayne

Highlighting Rocky's Round-up, Jo Layne Bowes was crowned Rock Island High School's 31st Homecoming Queen on November 1, 1968. Jo Layne's court included Jackie Freshwaters, Leanna Nelson, Monica Pealstrom, and Laura Swedberg.

The Girl's Athletic Association presented a necklace to each of the royalty. Senate honored the royalty with a corsage and bracelet.

Petitions were attained by twenty-eight Senior girls, with fifteen girls receiving the required twenty-five signatures. These girls were voted upon by the junior and senior classes, which later chose the royalty.

The Queen presided over the subsequent parade, game, and dance.

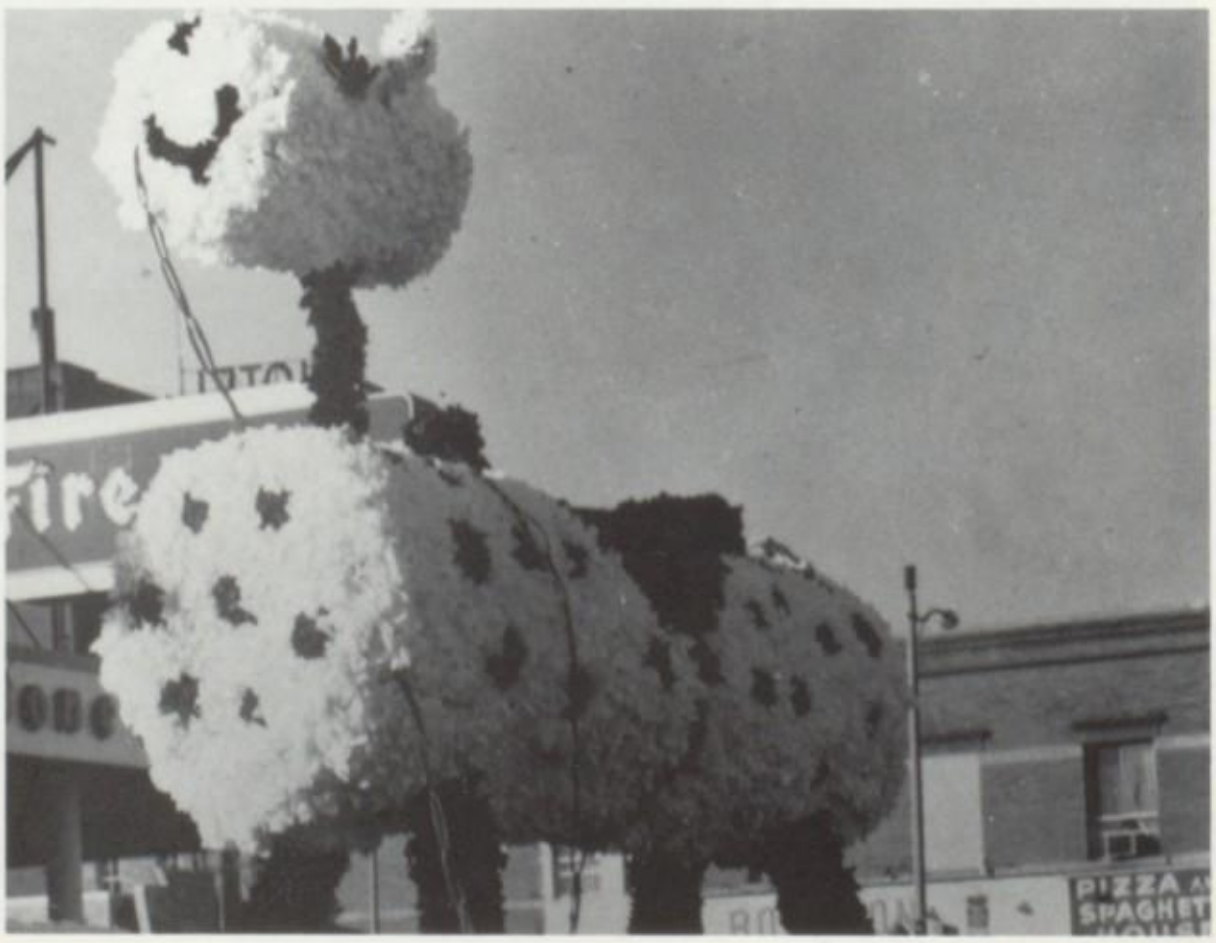
Rocky's Roundup makes good

Revolving around the theme of "Rocky Roundup," Homecoming 1968 passed quickly—but only after a month of involved preparations. On November 1, the downtown parade, including the band, cheerleaders, queen candidates, and floats, marshalled a festive mood. "The Roadrunner," "Rock It To 'Em'," and "Choo Choo," were the prize winning floats, and were later paraded during halftime of the football game. Concluding an active weekend was the Homecoming dance, sponsored by GAA. "Old West" decorations provided the setting; bags of "gold" gum were given to each girl; "bubbling" drinks were on hand; appropriate portrait pictures were taken; and of course, the Queen and her court were presented.

The race resulted in the big horse finishing second with "Rock It To 'Em'."



"Here we have the mechanism that manipulates Texas Mike's movements," demonstrates Howard Waxenberg.

Winning Homecoming floats require last minute touches before judging.

Rocks drop dual meets, three go to sectional

The 1968-69 wrestling season must be termed a building year for Rocky. The 1—10 dual meet record does not reflect the experience gained by the many underclassmen who wrestled on the varsity squad all year. As many as six of the twelve weight classes were filled by sophomores.

Most promising of the sophomores was 103-pounder Ron Banks who advanced to the finals of the sectional tournament and just missed qualifying for State when he was defeated in the "wrestle back" round of the tournament.

Helping the effort at the sectional tournament were 145-pounder Rick Bevans, junior, who along with Banks placed first in district competition and 120-pounder Ezell Turner, senior, who qualified by placing second in the district.

Senior 127-pounder Chuck McDowell was the most successful wrestler in dual meet competition but failed to qualify for the higher tournaments when he was upset in district.

District Meet 4th

Swimmers merit honors; send nine to state

Junior Varsity cheerleaders, Leah Hisey, Candy Cheek, Marcia Glassner, and Judy Knox spur the dolphins on to victory. Those dolphins inspired by the cheers are Coach Gary Ackerson, Dave Wenos, Doug Carpenter, Chris Kirk, Stan Lohmeier, Marc Gilliam, John Timm, Dave Conrad, Lynn Burris, Randy Kirk, Sam Karon. SECOND ROW: Todd Anderson, Don McWilliams, Rick Meade, Chris Conrad, Don Dalhstrom, Wolfgang Krismanits, Ted Brown, Jon Duyvejonck, Scott Boxman, Joe Weeks, Curtiss Scott, Tom Ayers, Coach Ken Knapp. THIRD ROW: Coach Jim Peterson, Jeff Kolinchinsky, Jeff Punkiewicz, John Chappell, John Guth, Lynn Sutton, Brian Gunthrie, Lee Brostrom, Keith Gilliam, Kurt Froude, Bill Morgan, Marty Karon, Rick Grossell. BACK ROW: Ken Arnold, David Feesell, Jerry Mitchell, Jim Lohmeier, North Jersell, Toby Bevill, Manager Nick Karzin, Doug Fisher, Mark Greenleaf, Mark Broendel, Kim Cosentine, Rick Rubenstein, Dave Rubenstein.

Rock Island's Dolphins swam to the best season on record with 15 wins and 3 losses. The teams great drive was attributed partly to the 400 yard freestyle relay of Marc Gilliam, Jon Duyvejonck, Bob Lohmeier, and Keith Gilliam which set an All-American time of 3:20.3. Also assisting this great victory slate was the medley relay team of Scott Boxman, Wolfgang Krismanits, and Marc and Keith Gilliam that was considered for an All-American time.

Outstanding individual efforts were seen with Marc Gilliam and Stan Lohmeier in the 100 yard butterfly, with Marc holding the nation's fastest schoolboy time; Boxman in the 100 backstroke; Krismanits in the 100 breaststroke; Duyvejonck in the 100 freestyle; Bob Lohmeier in the 400 free; and versatile Keith Gilliam competing in nearly all strokes.

Sam Karon made diving a Rocky specialty, remaining undefeated in dual meets.

John Timm leisurely strokes through the water.

New outfits and new cheers give sparkle to Deonna Durkee, Michaela Demps, Leanna Nelson, Laura Swedburg, and Marsha Maurus presented challenging new cheers before Rocky fans.

Rock Island's cheerleaders were both active and colorful. The varsity squad switched from the traditional red suit to a gold one. The cheerleaders made a brave break, from sweaters to vests, wearing bright new uniforms.

These fifteen girls practiced long before the grueling try-outs. After being selected by the Senate there were many more lengthy workouts. The girls then led cheers at assemblies, games, and meets. In another change the junior-varsity and varsity squads sacrificed study halls to have a free period for cheerleading practice.

Junior varsity cheerleaders, Robbie Coatney, Candy Cheek, Judy Knox, Marcia Glassner, and Leah Hisey exhibit unity.

Rocks streak to victory after slow start

The Rock Island Rocks completed a successful 1968—69 basketball season with a 14—10 record. After a slow start, the Rocky cagers quickly gained momentum, winning ten games in twelve outings including six straight. However the Rocks then finished in a slump, losing their last four games. The Rocks posted three outstanding wins. They blasted arch rival Moline 85—57, and played masterfully in whipping highly rated Rockford West. In the Regional Tournament the Rocks earned a finals berth, playing their finest game of the year, beating East Moline 68—61.

The Rocks, starting only one player over 6′ 0″, combatted their lack of height with an aggressive defense and a determined attitude.

Frank Riley led the team's balanced scoring attack with a 14.1 average. For his fine all around play he received first all team MVC and Quad-City honors. Bernie Teague, Rocky's other heads-up guard, followed Riley with a 13.2 average and earned third team MVC and Second Team Quad-City recognition. DeArmond Briggs, playing center and forward, scored 11.2 points per game and led the team in rebounds. Bruce Hamming (10 point average), a 6′ 7″ Sophomore, added scoring and rebounding punch in reserve. Mark Brooks and Carl Bates, senior forwards averaged 8.5 and 7.0 points respectively. Frank Wood was the top reserve guard and averaged 4 points.

Pebble's success promises future laurels

The Rock Island High School Sophomore Basketball Team under the leadership of Head Coach Frank Youngquist and his assistant, Hugh Johnson, overcame a slow start of losing three of their first four games of the 1968-1969 campaign. The Pebbles then took a 48—38 win over city rival Alleman. The Little Rocks, using this game as an impetus, won seven out of their next nine games. The highlight of this spree was a 96—57 win over Cedar Rapids Washington. The sophomores lost their momentum during the last part of the season winning only two of their last five contests. Leading scorers after the end of the season were Barry Barnes, 10.7, and Steven Briggs, 10.2. Briggs also had the top individual score in a single game, hitting 27 against Washington. These two Pebbles, along with Tom Pirmann, Lonnie Boyd, Bruce Walker, John Each, and John Osborn displayed fine skill during the season. Besides possessing potential varsity performers, the squad touted an approximate .500 mark, good for an initial campaign by sophomores.

Students saw red every Friday—the crimson letter sweaters of the Lettermen's Club. Members were notable in other ways too. Lettermen were in charge of all ushering at the home basketball games, and one of their most popular projects was their sponsorship of a Queen candidate for the annual Kiwanis Karnival in the spring. Among other activities of the Lettermen's Club are the ever-popular "anonymous" cheers, which are used at assemblies during the time the cheerleaders decide the cheering contest winners.

Outstanding tennis teams are nothing new at Rocky. This year was no exception as Coach Bob Motz's netmen swamped area defenders to capture the Quad-City crown for the eleventh straight year. In addition the Rocks continued to stretch their winning streak to 64 consecutive dual meets. The netsters were led by a rugged six man varsity consisting of senior DeArmond Briggs, his sophomore brother Steve Briggs, seniors Steve Flack, Jeff Emry, Jerry Carstens, and junior Bob Huffman. The spring season included 18 dual meets, a six team invitational in New Trier, District, and State.

Girls' tennis team scores in Quad-City

The girls' tennis team this fall compiled a record of success. The team had its greatest triumph in the fall tournament; the regular season record spoke for itself. The Quad-City area's greatest singles threat, Diane Deyo, was back again in the No. 1 slot. She won the singles division in fall tournament play. Also returning was the doubles combination of Debbie Bennett and Suzi Wolff, the 1968 holders of the Quad-City doubles runner-up crown. Some of the varsity squad helping with strong play were Terry Sundquist, Kathy Ryan, and Caroline Potter.

bowling have tight seasons in intramural play

The Rocky intramural program was guided by C. J. Johnstone. The sports offered included touch football, water polo, basketball, bowling, fencing, and archery.

Basketball, as usual, dominated the program with action in all three grades. The regular season was culminated by a single elimination tournament in the senior division.

The bowling program was also successful. Bowlers met weekly for three months at Town and Country Lanes. Fourteen teams entered the tournament.

Fencing enthusiasts received expert instruction from a Blackhawk College fencer. Football competing allowed juniors and seniors to merge their skill for six weeks of play. Archery and water polo were also offered to interested students.

'68 track teams continue chain of victories

The most successful sports teams of Rocky in the 1968-69 sports season were the Cross Country and Fall Track Squads coached by Howard Lundeen. The varsity team amassed 72 wins and 4 losses in three years, the junior varsity was undefeated, and the Sophomore squad ran up a 27 and 10 mark.

This year's varsity runners won the Quad-City and Valey Fall Track Championships, they took second in the Mississippi Valley Cross Country Championships, first in district Cross Country and 19th out of over two hundred schools in the State Cross Country meet.

Team Captain Larry Begyn set the pace for this year's team by setting the school record in the mile at 4:23.9. Larry was backed up with the excellent distance running of seniors Ben Farrar, Ted Larson, Bob Bellomy, and Gary Greenleaf.

The hard work and dedication of the Fall Track and Cross Country Teams was rewarded at a banquet given for both squads. Ken Enstrom and Tony Canny both received the Most Improved Runner Award. The award for the Most Valuable Runner went to team captain Larry Begyn and Mel Stetson became 1970 captain.

The 1969 sophomore track season opened February 10 with a good showing of over fifty athletes. Coach Hod Lundeen said the squad developed much depth in almost all events. A number of cindermen led the Pebbles through a tough schedule. Jewel Colvin and Cleveland Ellis supported the sophs in the sprints, while Russ Hines, John Osborn, and John Each helped out in the hurdles. Ralph Albritton, Greg Carlsen and Bob Johnson excelled in the jumping events, as did Jon Maurus in the shot put and discus. Dick Nesseler and Mike Jackson proved to be outstanding in the distance events.

The Rock Island varsity golf team under the coaching of Thaddeus Crews enjoyed another fruitful season. The team had great expectations, having won the district tournament for the previous three seasons, resulting in their participation in the state golf competition in Champaign. The team also had much to look forward to, with two returning lettermen, Bob Bailey and Bob Lindsay, and five other experienced varsity squad members, Doug Brown, Stan Lohmeier, Tom Kaller, Jack Clinton, and Gary Forslund. Junior John Robison also saw action. Bob Bailey usually was the medalist for the Rocky varsity contingent throughout the fall campaign. The boys' home course was Indian Bluff.

The 1969 Spring season for the Girls' Golf Team proved very challenging and triumphant. The team consisted of many enthusiastic players which included seven returning lettermen from a 1968 undefeated season. They were Laurie Anderson, Mary Campagna, Gloria DeVacht, Gail Learner, Debbie Stone, Laura Swedburg, and Susie Wilson.

The Team diligently practiced under the tutelage of Coach Frank Youngquist. After working out at the Mill Creek and Indian Bluff golf courses and the Blackhawk Driving Range, the girls were in condition to successfully compete with the Moline and Davenport teams.

Returning lettermen spark baseball team to im

The '69 baseball season started with a crack last year. With a number of returning seniors led by Jeff Reed, the season posed a threat to anyone with Rocky on the schedule. Coached by Carl Aronson and Jim Seeley the team began the campaign with innovations in their practices. The field house was turned into an indoor baseball diamond, with infield practice on the ground floor and batting and exercises on the top level.

Other players the coaches were relying on were Walt Stradley, Cliff Nice, Chuck McDowell, Mike Crawford, and Cary Cox.

Revealed only last year, Rocky's "Hall of Fame" continued to be a great mark of pride for athletic director H. V. "Shorty" Almquist. Probably the first of its kind in the nation, the boards were erected to honor outstanding athletes from Rock Island High, to motivate youth to excel in athletics, and to promote good sportsmanship, scholarship, and citizenship. The latest athletes to be eligible for recognition were swimmers Bill Schuster, Tom Chappell, Brice Anderson, and Marc Gilliam; tennis champs John Mordhorst and DeArmond Briggs; and football star Ken Johnson.
